Of drain tax

Rep to avoid 'local politics'

The chairman of a state legislative committee which checks legislation on storm drainage financing said he will "not be stampeded into headline seeking meetings" in an effort to correct what may be an abuse of the drain financing law.

State Rep. John Maynard D-St. Clair Shores, said he does not want his House Drainage Committee "mixed in with local politics", but said he was willing to help local communities combat what they believe is an abuse of a drain assessment privilege for by Drain Commissioner Charles N.

Youngblood, "if it requires a change in the law to correct the situation." "I'm concerned about the drain commissioner, but it's the Legislature's job to assure citizens have laws to live with," Maynard added. "I have no first-hand knowledge of the situation in Wayne County, but the drain commissioner well may be exceeding his authority, based on what local officials have said."

"If it's in the realm of the Legislature to correct a problem with the law which allows the drain commissioner an opportunity to abuse the law, then the Legislature may act."

However, the Legislator said "it's up to the county prosecutor" to correct any illegal situations and not itself.

Maynard said he was surprised at the public outcry over a Senate bill allowing the maximum charge a drain commissioner could levy without approval of the voters from $800 per mile to $2,000 per mile for drain maintenance.

"I viewed the bill as non-controversial," Maynard said. "But it seemed to bring everyone out from Wayne County."

The legislator added that he still believes the bill before his committee is not the problem, but instead is a "rallying point for local officials who are mad at another county official."

Other than the Wayne County officials' protests on Youngblood's alleged abuse of the present drain assessment levy, Maynard said there is little comment either for or against raising the assessment limit from $800 to $2,000 per mile in counties of more than 250,000 in population.

"The committee will meet once or twice again, and then may consider reporting the bill out," Maynard said. "But other than hearing from a few county drain commissioners that they cannot clean drains for $800 per mile, there is no overwhelming demand for the legislation."

The next meeting on the proposed change in state law is scheduled for March 2. After that, Maynard said he may consider holding a hearing in the metropolitan Detroit area — possibly in Canton Township — "for an hour or two" to discuss the alleged abuse of the drain law.

"I don't want the committee mixed in with local politics," Maynard added. "But if anyone knows of abuses on a first-hand basis, then the committee should be informed."

Persons who may wish to complain about problems with their drain assessments can write State Rep. John M. Maynard, House Drainage Committee chairman, Capitol Building, Lansing 48901.

"I'm not promising action, but if there appears to be some area in the law which needs tightening, then the committee will explore it," Maynard said. "But there really isn't much a legislator can do in this instance, if it's a violation of the law."

"If there's an abuse it's up to the county prosecutor to handle it."

Food for quake victims

Students of Romulus' Mt. Pleasant Elementary School loaded provisions on a truck to begin their shipping to the homeless victims of the recent earthquake in Guatemala. All students in the school contributed to the drive, which first was organized by Mrs. Peterson's sixth grade class. More than 20,000 people died in the earthquake which almost leveled Guatemala City in the Central American country. — The Romulus Roman photo.

Clerks group sees primary as 'no benefit'

The Wayne County Clerk's Association has adopted a resolution urging that a state presidential primary either be discontinued or funded with state funds.

According to Leonard J. Folmar, Romulus City Clerk, the clerks will act individually to follow up on the resolution by urging Gov. William G. Milliken to sign a bill, adopted by the Michigan State Senate, which would put the burden of financing a primary on the state.

"I see no benefit in promoting a primary which does not benefit the voters," Folmar said. "All the primary does is obligate the delegates to vote for the presidential candidate on the first ballot."

"With conventions seldom settled on the first ballot, that offers citizens no guarantee."

Folmar added that activities inside the Democratic Party further erode the voters' chance to choose delegates for the convention.

"The state central committee will select delegates and allocate them to candidates on a percentage share," Folmar said. "The end result is that the citizens will not elect any delegates at all.

"There seems to be no real meaning to the whole process."

Folmar has been in contact with clerks across the state on the same issue, and that the clerks' opinion generally is running in the same vein.

"I don't have any money in my local budget to hold the election," the clerk said. "The same is true across the state."

"The only reason I'm obligated to hold the election for the citizens in Romulus is because the state requires it."

"If the state requires it, then the state should pay for it."

The presidential primary, which will cost Romulus residents $5,700 this year, according to preliminary budget estimates, is scheduled for May 17.

At that time, citizens will be voting their preference on Democratic and Republican candidates, while the Republicans also will be selecting delegates to the county convention.

The Democrats will be allocating their delegates, based on the May percentages, during a meeting in August.

'Silver screen' to aid work-study program

Some Romulus junior high school students are going to get a taste of the "glamor of the silver screen" this week when they present a showing of "The Sting" at the Romulus South Junior High School.

English instructor George Bowersox said the showing will not be a money-making event, but is a work-study activity in both the study of english and in vocational education.

"The goal of the class is to show students all the jobs that are associated with a theater," said Bowersox as his students prepared for opening their show at 3 p.m. tomorrow. "It's an English class activity, but we also have students selling tickets, operating the projector and advertising the show, just as it would be in the real theater."

The movie, selected after the 29 students in the class took a poll of their fellow students, will be shown twice tomorrow at 3 and 7 p.m.

Students at South Junior High, located on Olive St., are urged to attend the 3 p.m. showing, and only students accompanied by parents are being asked to see the 7 p.m. show.

Tickets for the show, starring Robert Redford, are $1 apiece, and are available either from an English class student or at the door, said Mary Lou Good, student publicist.

Miss Good added that the movie was selected after students at South who were approached by English class students, indicated their favorite actor was Redford and that they enjoyed comedy and adventure shows more than serious drama.

The English students visited the Algiers Drive-in in Westland for a demonstration on how movies are shown at that facility, and also were scheduled to visit the Quo Vadis Theater in Westland.

Charles and Martin Shafer, operators of the Wayne Amusement Co., which operates the Algiers and Quo Vadis theaters, arranged for the youngsters to attend both theaters for study.

Residents who may want more information on either of the two showings can obtain it by calling South Junior High at 941-2770. Proceeds from the show will be used to defray the cost of renting the film, and if anything is remaining, will go to a class trip.

Saturdays full of enrichment for youngsters

Super Saturday is returning.

The Romulus Continuing Education Department will be sponsoring a new series of "Super Saturdays," starting March 6.

Students in the kindergarten and to the sixth grade are eligible for a number of different enrichment courses to be held at the Romulus High School.

Youngsters in the fourth through sixth grades will attend classes between 9 and 11 a.m., while the students in the kindergarten through third grade will attend classes from 1 to 3 p.m.

Registration for the program will run for three days at Romulus High School.

Registrations will run from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday.

Registration fees will be $6 per child.

Classes will run from March 6 to April 10 under the joint sponsorship of the Romulus City Recreation Department and the Romulus Board of Education.

According to William Smith, community education program director, Romulus Recreation Director Marie DeBuyscher agreed to contribute some funds to the course.

Included in the course offerings are such topics as auto lab, termed "Hot Wheels" and used to give students an introduction to auto mechanics.

Also included is a cooking class for youngsters, entitled "Watch Out, MacDonalds!" and designed to help students prepare nutritionally-sound snacks.

Beginning lessons in tap dance and toe dance are entitled "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Toes."

All courses in the offering are designed to enhance the students learning earned through the regular school curriculum.

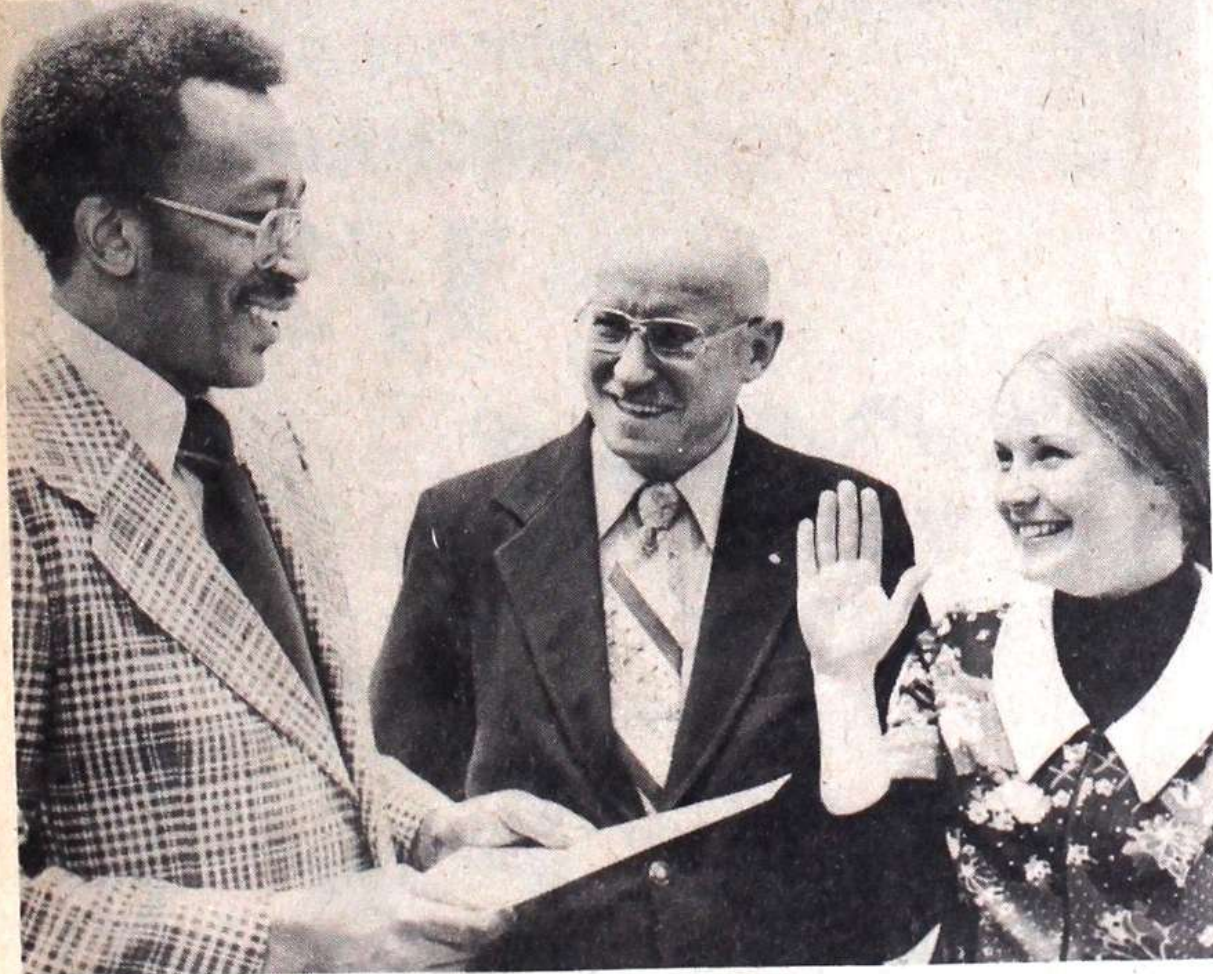

The Super Saturday program is a follow-up to last year's highly successful initial effort at introducing enrichment courses to the school curriculum.

On the inside

Wayne County Commissioner has blasted a plan to temporarily house jail inmates at the Detroit House of Correction and a vacant building at Wayne County General Hospital as a "serious mistake." That's only part of the news on the inside.

Mahalak to serve on panel to preserve state railroads

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) has been named to a special House-Senate committee which will work to preserve Michigan railroad lines which would otherwise be abandoned. The special committee will work with the Department of State Highways and Transportation to carry out what is known as the Phase II Railroad Plan. The efforts of the Legislature and state agencies to save the railroads followed federal law which established a U.S. Railway Association to re-organize the nation's railroads into a consolidated railway corporation (Conrail) network. The re-organization included plans to abandon approximately 1,300 miles of rail lines in Michigan. In order to prevent this, the Legislature last year passed a measure to allow the Department of State Highways and Transportation to preserve, maintain and upgrade state rail service. — Phase II Railroad Plan — Mahalak said. "Michigan cannot afford the railroad cutbacks proposed under the federal reorganization plan," Mahalak added. "The state is dependent upon continued rail service to meet the needs of industry and agriculture and to encourage industrial development. Transportation problems affect all of the people of the state." He said in working with the Department of State Highways and Transportation to implement the Phase II Railroad Plan, the Special House-Senate committee will recommend legislation it feels is necessary to carry out the plan. The House members of the special committee were appointed by House Speaker Bobby D. Crim (D-Davison).

Kimberly McMillian, Vickie Potteiger, Joseph Schroeck, Tanya Trudell and Celeste Mickus.

Eighth graders with the high scholastic achievement were Beth Clark, Kay Dickerson, Larry Frydrych, Karen Krug, Jeffery Plowman, Bernard Porzondek, Linda Spino and Michael Stoelton.

The ninth graders were Eve Boyd, Lisa Collins and Steven Gray. Also named to the honor roll were:

Tax rate reviewed

The Sumpter Township Board of Review has set its meeting dates for the annual March appeals process for township residents.

The board is scheduled to meet March 2-6 and March 8-13 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 12 p.m. and 1 and 5 p.m. each day in the township supervisor's office.

The purpose of the meetings is to offer residents an opportunity to review the assessments on their property and to consider appealing them to the board.

In hardship cases, or in the case of error, the board can change the assessment on a parcel of property.

Persons wishing to attend the Board of Review should call the township hall at 697-0900 for information.

Township opposes rate hike

Van Buren Township has joined Romulus in officially opposing better than 100 percent rate increases in sewage disposal charges to be passed on to the communities by the Downriver Sewage Disposal system. The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees voted unanimously to notify the Wayne County Board of Public Works, which consists of the 3-member Wayne County Road Commission, that it was opposed to any change in the rates.

The public works board had announced the rate increase after learning the county would not receive a full federal grant for improving sewage treatment facilities at the public works department-operated plant in Wyandotte.

County bids for unit

Romulus: Site of solar research institute?

There's a chance Romulus either could be the site of, or a neighbor to, a federal solar research institute.

Wayne County is in the bidding for a massive research facility to be funded with a $50 million annual budget and employing 1,500 workers on one of three county sites.

Included in the list is the 338-acre Wayne County surplus land site located on Van Born Road at the end of Venoy Road in Romulus. A second site is on the Wayne County General Hospital Eloise grounds across Van Born Road from Romulus at Merriman Road. The third site is on 50-acres of land across from the Wayne County Child Development Center in Northville.

The so-called Solar Energy Research Institute (SERI) is perusing offers from the states of Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Minnesota, New York and Tennessee along with a group of New England states in addition to Michigan sites for the 1,400-employee research institute.

Wayne County Commissioner Royce C. Smith has received assurances that the institute will not involve any damage to the environment, since most of the research to be conducted in it will be done inside.

John Mogk, president of the Michigan Energy and Resource Research Association (MERRA) has joined with John Lesinski, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners Public Works Committee in lobbying for the institute.

At least two of the states pursuing the research institute, California and

New York, are employing fulltime lobbyists to win approval.

Mogk, an unsuccessful candidate for the mayoral post in Detroit, said Michigan's proliferation of small and medium metal fabricating business, engineering works and tool operations would help feed the operations of any solar research institute set-up in the county.

In addition, he cited the 1,500 jobs the institute would require as a "plus" when considering the benefits of the SERI in Michigan.

The three county sites are among 27 locations from throughout the United States which would be competing for the site. The field of choices will be narrowed to five, or six, by the middle of the summer.

Working on the project from the public works committee in addition to Lesinski are Edgar L. Harris (D-28th District), committee vice-chairman; Royce E. Smith (D-27th District); Thomas Presnell (D-20th District); Clemens E. Bykowski of Detroit and Chester Wozniak of Hamtramck.

Communities voice intent to battle water rate hikes

Virtually every community in the area has voiced its intention to join in a region-wide suit against the Metropolitan Detroit Water Board.

Officials in Van Buren Township and Sumpter Township have officially endorsed a 5-cent per resident payment to a fund being established by more than 100 communities from throughout Southeastern Michigan who are served by the Detroit water system.

The funds will be used to test the Detroit water board's right to pass on rate increases to member communities without first justifying the reason for those rate increases to community leaders.

The action is an outgrowth of a meeting earlier this month in Livonia, chaired by Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, who has been a most vocal opponent of the water rate increases.

Officials attending the meeting from the area voiced their concern about the rate increases and pledged to go back to their respective legislative bodies to request the 5-cent per person fund appropriation to help finance the suit.

McNamara first became involved in the rate increase controversy after the water board announced a 39 percent across the board increase would be passed on to suburban communities to cover "increased costs" of operation.

Although Detroit residents also are being levied an increase, it is not at the same level as the suburban increase approved by the board.

The Livonia mayor was a member of the board at the time, but protested the adoption of the rate increase language so strenuously that he was removed by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, who has the power of appointment to the board. The water board consists of four Detroit residents and three suburban residents.

McNamara charged that the rate increase was not justified totally, and was rebutted when he requested an audit of the water board's books to prove the need for the increase.

The Livonia meeting earlier this month is to gain the support of all communities served by the Detroit system in an effort to place the water board under some form of public regulation.

Society in need of drivers to assist cancer patients

Persons who enjoy meeting others and helping them at the same time have a chance through the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society is looking for volunteer drivers in the Belleville-Van Buren area who are willing to donate up to at least two hours per week to transporting patients in need of cancer therapy to centers in the area and in Ann Arbor.

According to Marlene Biga, local drivers chairman, the person who elects to join the effort should be friendly, stable, tactful, considerate and able to attend periodic training sessions.

Drivers may specify the days they wish to serve each month. There is no requirement to work on the weekend.

According to Mrs. Biga, schedules for drivers will be arranged well in advance and all patients who need transportation are able to walk and need no special assistance other than motor transportation to the hospital.

Hospitals which are most likely to be visited by patients include St. Joseph's Hospital and the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

To qualify for the program, a driver should have a car in good working order available, and must be willing to keep the minimum insurance required by law to operate an automobile in Michigan.

Although the drivers will not be paid, their mileage while helping another can be deducted from the drivers' income tax.

More information on the program can be obtained by calling Mrs. Biga at 699-5020.

She moves nursing profession

By RUSSEL TUTTLE
Director of Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Her name is recognized today as the prime mover in the development of the medical service we call nursing.

Born in Florence, Italy (May 12, 1820), she was the only daughter of parents of substantial means. She was further fortunate in that her parents understood the importance of good education and trained her at home.

She enjoyed the luxury of travel and moved from the European continent to the African continent and finally to the British Isles. Her natural concern for people usually drew her to the hospitals of the day, and the sights she saw appalled her.

Still, on a trip to Alexandria, Egypt she was deeply impressed with the hospital conducted by the Catholic Sisters of St. Vincent de Paul. And, she was even further impressed by the hospital operated by the Institute of Protestant Deaconesses at Kaiserworth, Germany. It was from this school that she obtained her basic nursing education and graduated in 1851.

She returned to England, and in 1853 she was named superintendent of the Hospital for Invalid Gentlemen in London. In just a few years, this hospital would be renamed in her honor.

It must be understood that in the 1850s, nursing was not really accepted as a profession. Most practitioners of the art were from poor families who worked with the indigent. Hospitals at that time generally were only used by the poor, while those of means were attended to by the family physician in the home.

It was principally through her undaunted efforts that nursing, in the middle 1850s began its ascendancy. The Crimean War began in 1854, and English citizens and politicians soon were horrified by reports reaching the homeland which indicated that British soldiers were suffering as much from neglect as they were from battle wounds.

Consistent with her obvious concern for others, she volunteered her services as a nurse to the War Office. The secretary of state for war, Sidney Herbert, was quick to accept her offer. Thus, on Nov. 4, 1854 she and her team of 38 Anglican and Catholic nurses arrived at the British army base on the Bosphorus to attend to the wounded and dying.

She assessed the situation, and went to work. It was clear that she needed soap, bandages, utensils and proper clothing for the soldiers. She contributed personal funds and with the additional help of funds solicited from friends at home she was able to purchase the things she needed to treat the victims of the war.

The military and medical officers initially fought her and her ideas. But, despite such interference she persisted. She was known to drive herself harder than she drove her people.

Shortly, she became known as the "Lady in Chief," a title which clearly was indicative of her quiet dignity, her adherence to discipline, and her determination to help the sick.

She had a habit of visiting the wards at night. To assist her in seeing, she carried a candle mounted in a small holder. She thus became known as the "Lady of the Lamp." And, it should be added, that to this day, a candle held by a nurse is one symbol used in the capping ceremony for new nurses.

In 1857 she became the chief consultant to the British army in its campaign against the Indian mutiny. She became an expert in sanitation procedures which buttressed her already preeminent position as the leader in nursing care. Her fame spread, and she was asked to help the Americans during the Civil War and the French during the Franco-Prussian War of 1870.

By this time, her reputation had been established firmly, and her position in history had been assured.

Indeed, almost singlehandedly, she had overcome the many prejudices shown toward nursing, and had made the profession a calling of honor.

In 1907, she became the first woman ever to be awarded the treasured "Order of Merit" from the British crown.

In retrospect, she is even more remarkable. She was, after all, a woman of means, and could well have spent her life as a member of the idle rich indulging herself in petty nonsense. But, a motivation which clearly superseded personal gratification drove her to dedicate her talents to the service of people.

She died in London on Aug. 13, 1910. She had attained the age of 90 — a feat which is outstanding even by contemporary standards.

Today when her name is invoked, we think immediately of one who is willing to share of their talents and blessings to help others.

She was indeed the founder of nursing, and her dedication serves as the model for those who have followed in that calling.

Her name was Florence Nightingale.

Demand safe environment

To the editor: The Public Health Committee of the Michigan House of Representatives has recommended passage of House Bill 4340, to prohibit the sale within Michigan of aerosol spray containers using freon as a propellant and this bill now is before the House for debate and vote.

More than two years ago, groups of scientists from different universities in the United States, including the University of Michigan, Harvard and the University of California, concluded that freon put into the atmosphere faster than it can be replaced. The ozone layer screens out ultra-violet radiation, and its destruction will increase the incidence of skin cancer and disrupt crop growing and life patterns all over the world.

No responsible scientist disagrees that this process is occurring. Substantial evidence gathered over the past two years supports the conclusion.

More than 60 per cent of the freon being put into the air comes from aerosol spray cans. Freon-propelled products such as deodorants, foot powder and hair spray easily can be replaced by roll-on or pump spray packaging. Aerosol packaging also is a rip-off to consumers since more than 65 per cent of the contents are propellant and not the useful product.

In addition, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that an estimated 125 Americans were killed last year by deliberately inhaling aerosol products.

Several manufacturers are lobbying against H.B. 4340. These corporations have huge amounts of capital and influence to lobby for the defeat of the bill to ban the sale of freon aerosols.

Only if individual citizens write or phone their state representative, can the public interest win over the corporate interest on this issue. Citizen concern expressed to the Legislature can overcome the lobbying efforts of the freon manufacturers.

A safe environment is a right that all citizens should demand. The passage of H.B. 4340 will contribute to saving the atmosphere and act as a stimulus for national and worldwide action to stop pumping unnecessary freon into the air.

Perry Bullard
State Representative
53rd District

Here's $1 for local police

To the editor: Enclosed is $1 to be used to kick off a fund to equip the Belleville Police Department with rain gear and flares.

The lack of this equipment is the only possible excuse that I can think of that could have prevented them from being of assistance to the many people who incurred automobile damages and physical distress last Monday, night at the intersection of Belleville and Quirk roads. There was an enormous hole in the pavement that car after car was falling into because of the blinding rain.

The police car was sitting at the side of the road, observing, but making no effort to mark the hole—no flares, barricades, flashlights, nothing!!!

All they did was get out to retrieve hubcaps and put them into their trunk (oops - they got out without rain gear!)

We, my children and I, hit the hole right in front of the police, suffered two blow outs and drifted to the side of the road about 200 feet from their car.

I turned on the emergency flashers confident that they would rush right over to be of assistance

We waited a few minutes and they did not respond.

Because of my recent surgery, my two daughters had to get out in the rain, in the dark, not dressed for such conditions and walk in the mud back to the warm, dry policemen, snug in their car.

After some discussion through the window — the girls standing in the rain — the officers finally grudgingly took them out to a station at the expressway and deposited them.

I'm sure they were hard pressed to hurry back to picking up hubcaps because they completely forgot to do such a kind thing as to make sure that in our confusion and distress that the girls had a dime with them for a pay phone. Bless the attendant at the Shell station who did.

My son and I sat in the car for about an hour not knowing where the girls were or what had happened to them after they disappeared into the darkness.

Finally they arrived with the wrecker and we were rescued. But that still left several other cars sitting everywhere, broken down, in the driving rain. As we drove away in the wrecker, we saw one older

Owen proposes condo laws

To the editor: Condominiums have experienced unprecedented growth in recent years. Yet they remain under the control of an outdated state statute. I am proposing legislation to revise that law to provide protections to consumers and greater flexibility for builders.

I was disturbed to find that present law ignores consumer needs. The proposed bill would for the first time regulate advertising to forbid misleading statements and similar business practices. Persons considering the purchase of a condominium unit would have to be provided with a disclosure booklet spelling out all facts of condominium ownership, responsibilities, known fees and dues, etc.

Prior to distribution the disclosure booklet would have to be approved by the state administrator of the program, located within the Corporations and Securities Division of the Department of Commerce. Within a week of the closing date purchasers also would have to receive specific information on the development's budget and the structure of the building. This "truth in advertising" approach provides a first line of defense against practices that could victimize condominium purchasers.

In addition, the purchaser would have to be provided a warranty and a title insurance policy. A prospective purchaser's initial deposit (paid when a reservation agreement is signed) would have to be placed in a special escrow account. The prospective purchaser also could withdraw from the agreement without penalty at any time prior to issuance of a permit to sell to the developer, or within 10 days thereafter.

Builders and developers of condominium projects would gain specific legal permission to develop condominiums in different stages. The Department of Commerce feels that this will provide more flexibility in the development of condominiums. Restrictions also would be placed upon developers regarding documents to be filed, foreclosure proceedings, escrow accounts required and filing fees.

State condominium administrators feel they presently lack the power to provide adequate regulation. Proposed changes would provide for strict enforcement, including the power to subpoena books, records and other information, and to issue cease and desist orders for alleged violations of the act.

A condominium development is a development held in common ownership by all persons who have purchased space there. If you buy a condominium you purchase the exclusive use of all the space inside the inner walls of your apartment or house. It is yours to decorate, maintain and live in. Everything else in the development — the exterior walls, the grounds, the common hallways, the recreation facilities, and so forth — is the common property of everyone who owns a unit there.

The co-owners of a condominium are organized legally into an association, responsible for governing and maintaining the common elements of a condominium. Each must pay a monthly fee or assessment for these services.

This relatively new concept in residential development has proven very popular. It often offers residents such facilities as a club house, swimming pool, play areas for children and possibly even a golf course. Snow removal, lawn care, painting and other maintenance tasks become a responsibility of the association of co-owners, rather than of the individual, thereby relieving individuals from these sometimes tedious tasks.

The new bill, House Bill 5956, now awaits consideration by the House Committee on Towns and Counties. Should anyone have information or comments to offer about present condominium law shortcomings or the need for specific new provisions, I am sure the committee chairperson, Rep. Thomas Brown, would be pleased to have your input.

woman walking across the bridge towards town with a thin shirt over her shoulder, soaking wet, while the officers — as usual — were snug, warm and dry.

Our wrecker attendant told her that he would be right back to help.

You'd think that just as human beings they would have responded to our need, but how much more so as policemen, had they only had the necessary equipment.

So the fund starts here — everyone chip in a dollar and the next time a small crisis arises, we'll see them all outfitted and serving the public as they have sworn to do.

P.S.: If it wasn't a lack of equipment, what was the reason for such inconsiderate behavior by people in public services?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Branham, since I am not in a position to start a fund for the Belleville Police Department, I am returning your $1 to you. You might consider mailing it directly to the Police Department or to the City Council.

Elementary classes have varied projects

Classy castles

After completing a study of the Middle Ages, members of Mrs. Joan Knott's sixth grade at Rawsonville Elementary School put their imaginations to work. The students used cardboard boxes, scissors, tape, glue and construction paper to produce medieval castles, some complete with walls, foliage and "landscaping." The project took two weeks of diligent work and the results were amazing. The above trio, Lana Biggans, Dawn Brooks and Pam Halton were caught in the act of adding the final turret to their architectural design. (Photo courtesy Phyllis Greer.)

George is remembered

The children in Level 3 at West Willow Elementary School wanted an unusual way to celebrate George Washington's birthday. And although baking a cake is hardly unusual, the cake itself was not your typical birthday dessert. It was a blue and red marble confection with

Breakfast is important

Mrs. Janice Hink's second grade class at Haggerty Elementary School recently studied nutrition and the importance of eating a good breakfast. As a result, the children decided to plan, serve and eat a balanced meal. Foods included were orange juice, hot chocolate with marshmallows, bacon, rice krispies, strawberries and waffles. Three mothers, Mrs. Debbie Durbal and Mrs. Barbara Soave (pictured above) and Mrs. Kathleen Jalynski helped guide the novice chefs. Clyde Batzer, principal; Mrs. Ola Sutcliff, school secretary, and Don Whitehead, custodial engineer, were also sent formal invitations. Part of the group who enjoyed their meal along with music and a "dance and floor show" by David Brinkerhoff and Paul Binert were Vicki Thomas, Timmy McKinney, Wendy Pleknik, Billy Baxter, Tammy Bruce and Greg Jalynski (pictured above.) (Photo courtesy Phyllis Greer.)

Since the first small gatherings in the United States 89 years ago, the prayer movement has captured the imagination of Christian women in local communities everywhere, across continents and islands, to include 169 countries around the world as well as every state in this nation.

Plan to share in the neighborhood service at 1 p.m. March 5 at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville located at 417 Charles Street. Men are most welcome to participate. Babysitting will be provided. For further information, contact your own church.

In order to qualify, a person must be able to prove descent by an official record. Those interested in the offer or wishing help with documentation are asked to contact Cathy Horste at 699-2001 at the Van Buren Township Hall.

February births come in pairs for Rushes

Two new granddaughters within two weeks time gave Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rush of Romulus two more birthdays to add to their family calendar.

The first of the babies to make her presence known was Alyssa Anne Hoyle who was born Feb. 1 at Kirtland Air Force Base Hospital in New Mexico where her father currently is stationed.

The daughter of S-Sgt. and Mrs. Jack Hoyle, the infant weighed 7 lbs., - 9 ozs. and is the couple's second child, their older daughter being Tracey Michelle who's 3½-years old.

The girls' paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hoyle, also of Romulus; Mrs. Hoyle being on hand to welcome her daughter-in-law and new baby home.

Eleven days later, Jim and Peggy Lancaster added their new daughter's name to the family tree. Lori Ann, their second child, made her debut Feb. 11 at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

The 9 lb., - 4 oz. baby has a 2½-year old brother, Jimmy. Their mother is the former Peggy Rush.

Romulus club sees dancing exhibition

At the Feb. 3 meeting of Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1, the New Boston Square Dance Club presented a dancing exhibition. The group's teacher, Shorty Hoffmeyer, later invited the spectators to join in. Several members signed up for lessons. Others interested in learning to square dance may call any senior citizen.

A week later the seniors heard Bate Fuel of Manufacturers Bank of Romulus speak on the necessity of drawing up wills. John Lewkowicz also brought along a tax consultant to help members with their income tax statements.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

Do you have a budding musician in your family? Sometimes there is nothing better for the learning musician than to imagine himself in a real concert situation, with a real orchestra. Of course, you say, but do I have to hire an orchestra for a day? The answer is that today there are many records of many types known as the Music Minus One series. Whatever instrument you play, there is a Music Minus One record that is right for you. On these records, famous pieces of music are orchestrated — except for a certain instrument. The sheet music is supplied with the record, and your musician can learn to play along. It is an exciting way to learn. Your generation and mine, young and old alike, will like the many great instruments that are available at good savings at DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd. The Baldwin piano, used by many churches and concert halls, is available in beautiful pieces at Doug Brown's. We have a four week trial course on organs. Why not let us tell you a little about it??

Keep all wooden instruments away from the damp air. Dampness can ruin finishes, and in some cases, alter the sound of the instruments.

George Giblin's pals turn out enmasse

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

One of the area's most popular men, George Henry Giblin Jr., may not have known just HOW popular he was until the evening of Feb. 14 when he turned out to be the surprised guest of honor at a birthday party.

When friends learned that George would reach that auspicious age of 60 the day after Valentine's Day, they decided not to let the moment pass without an all-out effort on his behalf. So it was that special printed invitations and word-of-mouth requests found their way to all the right people. With Huron Township Supervisor George Moore as the instigator, the party was set for the VFW Hall in

Romulus with a 4 to 6 p.m. reception followed by dinner and dancing. Co-host duties fell to Dave Mann and James Bruce of Kelsey Hayes; Ray Varrott of The Blue Boar and Gary Dapprich of Milano Pizza. Doing a take-off on the popular T.V. "roastings" of celebrities, the above group did their best to point out the honoree's many good points with somewhat left-handed tactics. Others taking the podium with interesting vignettes on the "subject" were James J. Pompo, Deputy Director of the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority, (HCMA) Detroit office, who attended with his wife, and John Hughes of Bikers United. Among the 210 attending were Van Buren Township Supervisor and Mrs.

Elton Gollwitzer, Judge and Mrs. James Stone, Charles H. Sutton, former commissioner of Livingston County, and Mrs. Sutton; and Clifton W. Heller, HCMA treasurer and commissioner of Livingston County, and Mrs. Heller. Also the HCMA Detroit office agents, engineers and officers; supervisor and food service managers from Metro Beach division of HCMA, the park superintendent of HCMA-Kensington and the supervisor and employees from Lower Huron Metro Park. Special blown-up photographs and printing were the courtesy of Dennis McCarthy, his wife, and the employees of Glenn Printing Co. of New Boston.

Other guests came from Plymouth, Allen Park, Romulus, New Boston and Belleville.

The birthday man himself, who missed being a Valentine baby by one day in 1916, attended Denby High School and served with the U.S. Army. A resident of Belleville, the father of two daughters and two grandchildren, he is park superintendent of Lower Huron Metro Park, later taking on the same duties for Willow and Oakwood Metro Parks.

Joining in celebration

George H. Giblin Jr., Superintendent of Lower Huron, Willow and Oakwood Metro Parks, found out how many friends he had Feb. 14 when over 200 guests turned out at the Romulus VFW Club for a surprise dinner-dance reception marking his 60th birthday. Among

Curtain time set at 8 p.m. for 'Doctor in the House'

The English comedy, "Doctor in the House", is being presented this Friday and Saturday by "The Players" at the Belleville High School auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The play by Ted Willis revolves around the affairs of two young medical students, Tony (played by Joe Haynes) and a close friend, John (Jim Irwin), who share their apartment as well as their sophisticated lifestyle with a shy newcomer, Simon (Elvis Smith), the nephew of the chief surgeon (Bob Stewart).

Simon doggedly attempts to acclimate himself to the bachelors' life which includes women such as Vera (Diane Schroer) and nurse Reggie (Gail Sydney). He must further contend with the commercial efforts of Bromley (Bob Burr's), the hospital porter, who coaches him in the wiles of "hospital procedures."

Despite the sage advice of his helpful friends, the bewildered but honorable Simon finds himself skillfully maneuvered into a marriage proposal to nurse Janet (Dorothy Florian) who enlists the willing aid of her ambitious aunt, the head nurse (Diana Cooper).

Whether Simon's indoctrination, together with the rescue attempt of his friends, will suffice in his escape from the horrid fate of marriage is the climaxical question in "Doctor in the House."

Tickets for $2 will supply the answer as well as a good evening's entertainment when you choose either Feb. 27 or 28 for your theater date.

JPS was 'password'

After a successful job interview, Brenda Dixon was hired by American Hospital Supply as a packer and was trained to pack personal grooming kits to be sent to hospital patients. She enjoys the work and her many fringe benefits. Miss Dixon, a 1975 Romulus High School graduate, found her job with the help of Cathy Ward, Director of the Job Placement Service (JPS) for the Romulus Schools.

Job Placement Service is boon to RHS graduates

The Director of the Job Placement Service for the Romulus Schools, Cathy Ward, has a full schedule contacting various companies and businesses for possible employment for 1975 and 76 Romulus High School graduates.

Gary Bell was among those to recently be "placed" through Miss Ward's efforts. A June, 1975 graduate, he now is working at the Detroit Metro Ramada Inn. He began as a busboy in the dining room with no previous experience, recently received a promotion and now is working in the bar.

Ramada Inn believes in "promoting from within." The company has other benefits which Bell may take advantage of such as paid holidays, sick days and vacations, health and life insurance, reduced room rates and profit-sharing. Bell has been working for the motel chain for two months and plans to continue.

Another successful candidate from the Placement Service is Brenda Dixon who currently is working for American Hospital Supply. On her job she was trained to pack personal grooming kits to be sent to patients in hospitals.

Also a 1975 Romulus High School alumna, she is allowed to purchase certain health supplies at cost as part of her fringe benefits; another being the use of the beautiful employees' lounge which the company provides.

Romulus graduates interested in help in finding work may call the placement service at 941-2170, Ext. 74.

Black History Week marked at South Junior High School

"Black History and Awareness Week" at South Junior High School (SJHS) in Belleville began with an election to choose a black king and queen from each of the three grades. This was done to instill pride in the black students at SJHS. All classes participated in the nominations and voting.

Since Tuesday was "Liberation Colors Day," everyone was asked to dress in red, black and green which signify the African colors. For the next three days, a black film festival was presented with a series of black history pictures shown throughout each day.

On Friday a play, "From the Back of the Bus" — evolving around the Rosa Parks incident which took place in Montgomery, Ala. in 1955 — was shown during study hall.

The week of Feb. 9-13 concluded with "A Soulful Fun Night" when students danced to records, played basketball, volleyball, ping pong and other table games. Pop and chips were sold and the evening grossed $25 which was donated to the Understanding Committee of SJHS. The money will be used to support the Belleville Bicentennial Park project.

The highlight of the "fun night" was the presentation of the king and queen contest winners. Kim Brown and Michael Ramsey took the honors for the ninth grade; Jackie Turrentine and Jeff Patterson for the eighth and Judy Roberson and Greg Thompson for the seventh.

Cindy Coleman of the South staff coordinated the activities along with Earnest Robinson and many committees of black students.

With support from South's student council and most of the teaching staff in attendance at fun night, a very successful week was concluded.

Books graded poor

Government textbooks in use in Michigan senior high schools generally do an inadequate job of reflecting "the multi-ethnic, multi-racial and pluralistic nature of American society, past and present, according to the State Department of Education's 1976 Social Studies Textbook Study, released recently. State Supt. of Public Instruction John W. Porter said the study "reveals a large number of inadequacies in the books reviewed in terms of the overall portrayal."

This marks the first time senior high school government texts have been rated by the State Board of Education. The 12 textbooks were selected because they are widely used and represent the most recent offerings of the publishers issuing them, Porter added.

The textbooks were reviewed by 18 Michigan educators, each of whom reviewed two of the 12 books.

Conducted under provisions of a 1966 state law, the annual Social Studies Textbook Study last year focused on junior high school civic textbooks, and in the years before on history textbooks, Dr. Porter said.

Dr. Porter added that the ratings were arrived at by averaging the individual book reviews (three per book). The results are presented in terms of percentages of the 36 total reviews.

Of the 36 reviews, six (17 percent) gave the textbooks reviewed excellent ratings; seven (19 percent) gave good ratings; 10 (28 percent) gave fair ratings and 13 (36 percent) gave poor ratings. No very poor ratings were given, Dr. Porter said.

The 1975 Social Studies Textbook Study, which reviewed 10 junior high school textbooks, gave 13 percent excellent ratings; 30 percent good ratings; 30 percent fair ratings, 23 percent poor ratings and four percent very poor ratings, Porter added.

Troop 743 Girl Scouts earn badges

Girl Scout Troop No. 743 of the Harrison School cluster held an award ceremony at a recent meeting with the 11 scouts seeing the results of their hard work. Their leader Pat Stewart, co-leader and mothers were on hand for the occasion.

Twelve badges plus the sign of the arrow went to Angel King; 12 badges to Sylvia Justice; one to Tina Justice; 11 to Marcie Birry; 12 to Marnie Morton; nine to Rhonda Hawkins; two to Regina Stanley; nine to Carolyn Stewart; 12 to Kim Thrasher; 10 to Kim Doss and six to Charlotte Sebastian.

Special thanks and small gifts were presented to Bettie Doss, Bonnie Holliday and Cathy Hawkins for their help at the weekly meetings. Appreciation was also expressed to Becky King and Dorothy Wartz.

Among the troop's recent activities was a family skating night at the Mayflower Roller Rink in Romulus. All troops from the Harrison School cluster took part.

According to Smith

Jail plan 'serious mistake'

Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville) has called the decision to house jail inmates at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland and the Detroit

House of Correction (DeHoCo) in Northville Township a serious mistake.

Speaking out against the action, which was prompted by a panel of three Wayne County Circuit Court judges, Smith said: "The 3-judge panel has given no consideration to the financial state of the county. I am totally against deficit spending, as is every other Wayne County commissioner. There's no telling how much the final tab will be. Cost estimates of renovating M Building (at the hospital) keep going up."

Total costs currently are estimated at more than $6 million. This is to cover the renovation of M Building at Wayne County General Hospital and for security precautions required for three barracks at DeHoCo.

Acting under pressure from the 3-judge panel, the Board of Commissioners recently agreed to house prisoners for 90 days at DeHoCo., an emergency measure, and to renovate M Building at the hospital a job that is expected to take five months to complete. M Building is intended to suffice as a major jail annex until a new jail facility can be built, a project which would take a minimum of three years to complete.

Roscoe L. Bobo (D-Ecorse), chairman of the Board of Commissioners, recently said that the financial demands of temporary jail facilities have forced the commissioners to resort to deficit spending which "is likely to result in sharp cutbacks in public services later this year."

"Just doing a little quick arithmetic would tell me that spending $6 million to keep - 250 inmates for one year would run in the neighborhood of $24,000 per prisoner, per year. That's a lot of money to pay on the Wayne County taxpayers," Smith said. "We would be far better off spending that kind of money for a permanent jail."

"I further understand there is a serious question of whether the accreditation of the hospital could be put in jeopardy by the existence of a jail facility in the same complex."

'Bubble' makes class interesting

Student today don't just sit behind their little desks and study all day long. Teachers are trying to make classroom activities exciting and interesting to their young charges.

Candace Walters' first graders at Beverly Elementary School in Romulus explored the undersea world from inside their home-made "bubble" last week. The "bubble" was made of two sheets of clear plastic taped together with masking tape. The plastic was inflated with a large window fan and a slit was cut to serve as an entrance.

Once the children were inside, the room was darkened and an undersea movie was projected on the plastic.

From the inside, it appeared as though the class really was under the water, Mrs. Walters said.

To heighten the effect, Grace Flake — a paraprofessional — stood by stirring a glass pie plate filled with blue water over an opaque projector. The reflection of the rippling water on the "bubble" gave it an even more realistic feel, Mrs. Walters added.

The "bubble" has been such a success that Mrs. Walters said she plans to use it in other class activities.

In a 'bubble'?

Yes, you are seeing right. These youngsters actually are encased in a plastic "bubble." The "bubble" was Candace Walters' idea. Mrs. Walters is a teacher at Beverly Elementary School in Romulus. She created the "bubble" to allow her students to explore the undersea world. — The Enterprise-Roman photo.

Library to bring celebration closer

The Romulus Public Library is trying to do its part to bring the Bicentennial closer to the people of Romulus.

"Although we always have tried to have special displays at the library, we have experimented by introducing special displays with speakers," Librarian Diane Hazen said. "We are planning other special programs and displays in the future."

Last Tuesday night Michael Fisher, a master seaman and graduate of the British Naval Academy, spoke to a number of library patrons. He has loaned a display of the arts of the seaman to the Romulus Public Library and it will be on display all month.

Fisher left his sea career and came to the United States in 1965. He owns and operates the Fisher Marine Survey Co. of Detroit.

Mrs. Hazen said that the display includes ships which were used in the United States and England.

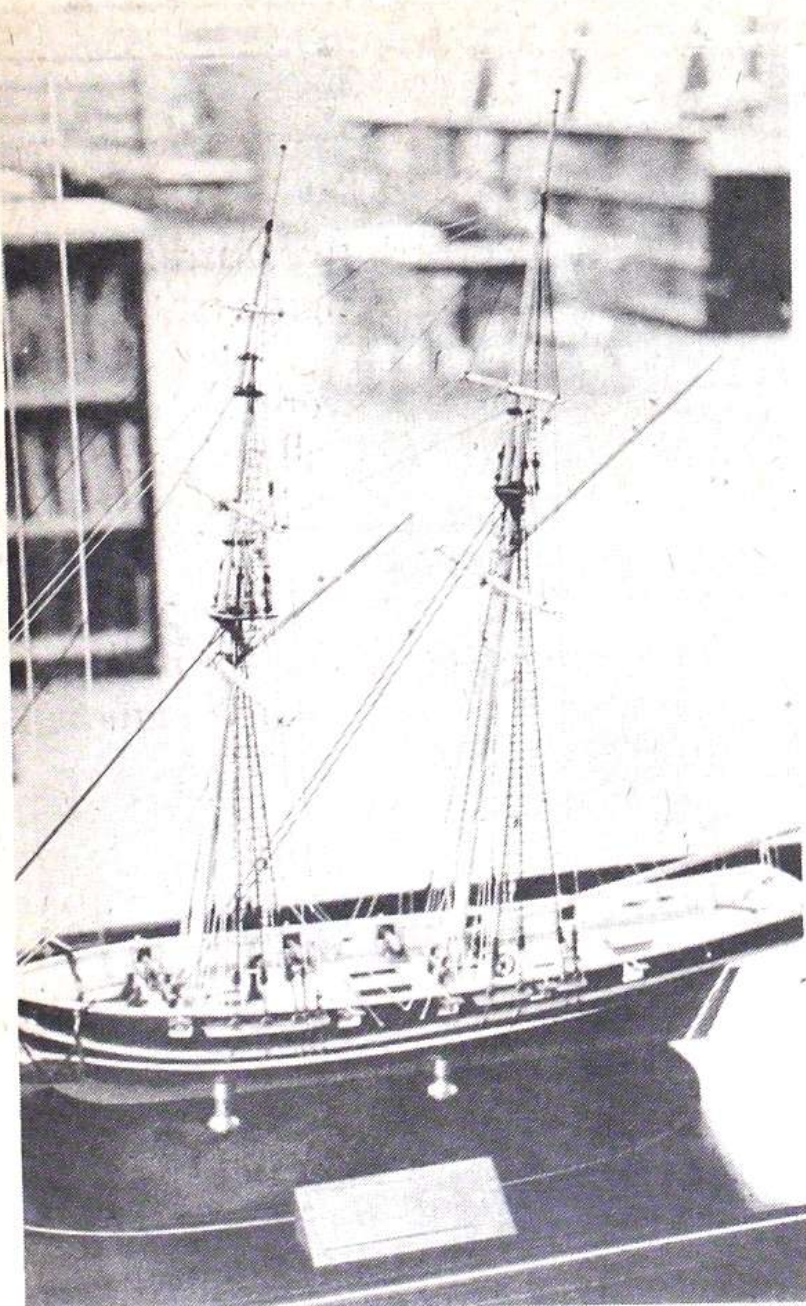

Last month Dick Warflet, a model plane hobbyist and aircraft industry student, talked about airplanes. On display in January were replicas of old planes, including the famous "Spitfire" from the British Royal Air Force. The theme of last month's display was "Planes in American History," Mrs. Hazen added.

And next month, a display of fossils from this area will be exhibited in the two show cases at the entrance of the library on South Wayne Road.

"It's a fantastic collection," Mrs. Hazen said.

The collection belongs to Cameron Oglesby of Dearborn who has traveled around the country collecting fossils. The display had been on exhibit before at the Romulus Public Library and received favorable reaction, the librarian said.

The scheduling of speakers on different aspects of history is an experimental project, Mrs. Hazen added. She hopes that enough interest would be generated by the programs to merit their continuation.

Bicentennial display

In its effort to bring the Bicentennial celebration closer to the citizens of Romulus, the Romulus Public Library each month is setting up a special display. This month Michael Fisher, a master seaman and graduate of the British Naval Academy, has loaned a number of articles to the library for display. This is just one of the ships which is a part of the collection. — The Enterprise-Roman photo.

Cigarette Market Bombshell.

New 'Enriched Flavor' discovery for 9 mg. tar MERIT achieves taste of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

"Low tar, good taste."

Others have made the claim.

Philip Morris just made the cigarette.

MERIT. Only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet MERIT delivers astonishing flavor. Flavor verified by smokers all across the country.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now—you'll be interested.

New 'Enriched Flavor' Discovery

By isolating certain "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have developed a way to pack extra flavor into tobacco without the usual increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'

It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through.

We packed 'Enriched Flavor' into MERIT. And began a series of extensive taste tests. The results were amazing.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at home*.

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar. From Philip Morris.

District cage playoff lines drawn

It's Romulus vs. AA Huron; Belleville takes on Ypsi

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Though the shooting hasn't begun, the lines have been drawn for the first round of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Class A District Basketball Playoffs to be held at Ypsilanti.

Romulus, sporting a 11-7 record going into this week's action, will take on Ann Arbor Huron (5-13) in the opening round at 7 p.m. while Belleville clashes with Ypsilanti in a 8:30 p.m. nightcap.

Belleville has a 15-3 record as compared to Ypsi's 12-5.

The semi-final round will be played Thursday, March 5 with Ann Arbor Pioneer (8-10) meeting the winner of the Huron-Romulus game and undefeated Monroe battling the Belleville-Ypsilanti winner.

The district championship will be decided on Sat., March 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Belleville High athletic director Harry Hidenfelter yesterday announced that tickets for the playoffs will be available Friday at the Belleville-Allen Park home game. Tickets are $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Belleville meanwhile routed Livonia Bentley 74-59 to remain in the thick of the Suburban 8 Conference title race. Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers still need some help from either Allen Park or Dearborn, league-leading Plymouth Salem's finale two rivals to get a slice of the title.

Belleville put the game out of reach early against Bentley as the Tigers' balanced scoring, sparked by Kevin Barnes, Dennis Easley and Narvell Turner, was just too much for the Livonians.

Up 22-10 after the first period, Belleville widened the margin to 38-20 at halftime. Niemi managed to use his bench liberally throughout most the second half.

"It was an excellent win for us because all of our players got into the game," Niemi said. "And I felt Barnes had an outstanding night for us and he received ample support from Easley and Turner."

Repeat performance

Defending champ Belleville South emerged atop of a field of 11 to capture the Belleville Junior High Swimming & Diving Invitational for the second consecutive year. Coach John Stosick, (holding last year's and this year's championship trophies) and his swimmers had only a two-point cushion over Lincoln Park Huff. Stosick credited his "depth team" to this year's victory.

Belleville South keeps junior high swim title

"We won it because of our depth." That's how Belleville South head swim Coach John Stosick summed up his team's victory at the second annual Belleville Junior High Swimming & Diving Invitational. South, the defending champ, garnered 195 points to edge second place finisher Lincoln Park Huff by two points to earn the championship. Huff garnered 193 teampoints for the runner-up honors and Belleville North, with 188 points, finished third in a field of 11 other teams. "We only had three first places," Stosick noted, "but we had a lot of deth which enabled us to pull this victory out."

South had a triple winner in Russ Bearance who was clocked in 59.61 for the 100-yard individual medley, (junior highs swim the 100 IM instead of the 200 that their senior high counterparts do), then Russ came back and posted a 59.29 in winning the 100-yard backstroke.

Earlier, Bearance teamed up with the DeRousse brothers Larry and Brian and Norm MacDermid to win the 100-yard individual medley in 1:55.02.

North had a double winner in Mike Sotelson who turned in an impressive 24.54 in claiming the gold medal for the 50-yard freestyle. Sotelson churned a 53.62 for his victory in the 100-yard freestyle.

ED ABBOTT

Abbot to play for MSU

Ed Abbott, an All-Area grinder who was a standout on Romulus High's team for the past three years, has signed a national letter of intent to attend Michigan State University.

The 6-foot-4, 230-pound senior was one of 20 players who received full ride scholarships to MSU, according to Romulus Head Coach Tom Baldwin.

"Ed is a good student and his first consideration was receiving an excellent education and at the same time play for an excellent football team," Baldwin said. "And he will be doing both at MSU."

A rugged defensive tackle who doubled on offense, Abbott led the independent Eagles in tackles. He also is a blue chip wrestler and will compete in the state finals this week at Michigan State.

Even dealers say that the biggest mistake most customers for new cars make is that they fail to test-drive the model they buy. Only by actually sitting in one and maneuvering it on the road can a driver be sure the car that looks so good also handles well and rides comfortably. If the dealer has a demonstrator to lend for a weekend, that is even better. Have someone ride in the back to check on leg-room and rear-seat comfort. Try parking and driving on unpaved roads. Give the car a good work over: you will have a better idea about what you are buying.
